From the time of the fail of Sebastopol until the Austro-Prussian war, calminating in the victory of Sadowa, France was, without doubt, the leading European power. Napoleon was conceded by all to be the great master of diplomacy of the age. When he spoke, nations listened in awe, and under his skillful guidance France came to be considered the arbiter of Europe. While he was undeniably great in war, he was still greater in peace; and commerce, agriculture and the arts have flourished under his sway as never before. But Sadowa has been fought and won since then, and needle guns declared omnipotent. Napoleon now has another scheme of annexation on the tapis.

The Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, on the borand military importance, has always been covet- gators generally, and to whalers bound north and most impregnable.

It appears that Napoleon has for some time been negotiating with the Holland Government for the cession of Luxemburg to France, for a consideration, and that the matter was considered as arranged, when the inevitable Bismarck steps in and forbids the transfer. All Northern Germany, including Bavaria and Baden, are determined to back the Prussian Minister, and even Austria, yet smarting under the defeat of Sa-A. S. So far, the Emperor's answer has not transpired, but the high-spirited, brave and proud French people can bardly construe this haughty Prussian interference into anything less than an insult, and it was thought the Luxemburg annexation scheme was very popular, and there was strong talk of persistence. But plainly, if it is persisted in, Bismarck means war, and France will hesitate to war with United Germany, led by Prussia and backed by Austria, and perhaps Russia; for the blow when struck will prove like a lightning stroke and she will be made to bleed at every pore. The FOREICN NEWS. Captain came on shore and reported the state of affairs to the British Consul. The Consul immediand two boats-crews were promptly dispatched to the Sea Chief, who assisted in getting up the anchor and putting sail on the ship, which immediately went to sea. It is stated that the Consul instructed Captain Laws in writing that when he got to sea, he must use force, even to the utmost extreme, to put down any mutinous conduct amongst the crew, and that he would be held blameless for consequences. Thus it has again been demonstrated, for the second time within a month, that the presence of a man-of-war in these waters is an absolute necessity, not only for the protection of American commerce, but that of other nations as well. It undoubtedly afforded Capt. Reynolds no small degree of satisfaction to be on hand and able to respond to the request of the British Consul, in the absence of a ship-of-war of his own nation. "Blood is thicker than water."

A SAVAGE Hog.-On Wednesday morning, while some hogs were being discharged from a schooner at the Esplanade, one, a huge boar, with long tusks and a decidedly ferocious look, got adrift, and charged up the wharf, running furiously at every one he saw. Two gentlemen coming down encountered the beast, and ran for a pile of lumber, which one of them succeeded in reaching, but the other slipped and fell prone on his back in a pool of mud. The hog was upon him in an instant, but fortunately got himself entangled in the gentleman's umbrella, affording an opportunity to reach the lumber pile, with no other tamage than a good scare, the loss of an umbrella, mains were conveyed to the Sailor's Home on Thurs- and the acquisition of a large quantity of liquid soil.

The prize fight between Chandler of California nd Harris of England, for $2,500 a side, came off at Point Isabel, Contra Costa county, on the afternoon of Saturday, April 13th. After twenty-two rounds had been fought, Chandler was declared the winner. Harris was terribly beaten, and was conveyed from the ground in an insensible condition. Chandler was unburt, ran a foot-race after the fight, and then acted as referee during a second fight which took place in the same ring. ter encounter was between McAlpin and McElroy who fought one hundred and eightrounds and then

The jury brought in a verdict for plaintiff for $5,000. The public mind is divided as to its justice, some arguing that it is an outrage to find in the plaintiff's favor. McAllister gave notice of a motion for a new trial in behalf of Reese.

Eastern News. The Connecticut election, which took place April 1st, resulted in a Democratic success. James L. English is elected Governor, and three out of four Speressmen are Democratic. Last year Hawley (Rep.) was elected Governor by a little over five hundred majority. The Democrats gain three Con-gressmen, who will be the only Democratic Conessmen from New England. English's majority 979. The Senate stands eleven Republicans to ten Democrats, the House one hundred and twenty one Republicans to one hundred and seventee Democrats. A leading republican journal in Connecticut attributes the defeat in that State to the conservative, thre-serving policy of the party. which tends to produce apathy and disgust in the ranks. The reverse is purely local, for the election in Rhode Island, an adjacent State, shows an in crease of the Republican majority. Governor Burnside is re-elected, both branches of the Legislature are strongly Republican and the two Republican candidates for Congress are chosen.
